Tuned Out: Why Americans Under 40 Don't Follow the News
Oxford University Press, 2004 (cloth); 2005 (paper); finalist, KTA Mott Award

Prepublication review: This is a very important book. Professor Mindich has undertaken to determine the extent of the news illiteracy of an entire generation of American young people, and, to speculate with authorities in broadcasting and print as to what can be done about it. This volume is a handbook for the desperately needed attempt to inspire in the young generation a curiosity that generates the news habit. Their lack of knowledge or even interest in our government bodes a critical danger to democracy as they become the nation's voting majority. --Walter Cronkite

Selected reviews: Publishers Weekly, Wall Street Journal, Washington Post, Seven Days, Burlington Free Press, Journalism History, Newspaper Research Journal, Journal of Communication, Vermont Guardian, Hardwick Gazette, Sacramento Bee, etc.

2010-12 Member, Faculty Welfare Committee (elected by the faculty)

2011-12 Chair, Faculty Welfare Committee (elected by the faculty)

2006-07 Chair, Faculty Welfare Committee (elected by the faculty)
Chaired a committee that successfully lobbied the administration to bring all faculty ranks to the 50 percentile of a mix of NE IIB and aspirant institutions, the largest salary increase in more than a decade.

2006-07 Member, Faculty Executive Committee
As chair of the Faculty Welfare Committee, I was part of small committee that interfaced between the faculty and the administration. Participated in interviews with candidates for the Saint Michael's College presidency.

2004-08, 2010-12 Member, Faculty Welfare Committee (elected by the faculty)
Helped to author the college's first merit pay system. My role in these discussions was to advocate for a system that rejected reward-the-few models wherein 10 percent of faculty received additional merit pay. Instead, the committee devised a system that found 90 percent of the faculty meritorious and thus worthy of a small merit-based reward.

2000-06, 2009-12 Committee Member, Dean’s Council of Chairs: As department chair, I brought in numerous speakers (see Other Service to the College); helped to organize three film series, one in 1999 and two in 2012-14; oversaw five faculty searches and multiple reviews; organized alumni reunions, senior project displays, and graduation events for journalism graduates; wrote five assessment reports (2003-2004, 2004-2005, 2005-2006, 2009-10, 2010-11); supervised four fulltime faculty members and up to 10 adjuncts a year. Managed and balanced the departmental budget. During my tenure as chair, our department

- ...grew from 80 majors (1997) to 162 majors (2006);
- ...saw a grade deflation, bucking national and college-wide trends;
- ...became a Kappa Tau Alpha chapter, the only one in the nation at a small college and the only one in northern New England;
- ...lobbied for & received digital still cameras, video cameras, and editing stations;
- ...saw its reputation rise within the college; we're now considered among the best;
- ...saw its research output and presence at the AEJMC increase markedly;

- 2003-2005 Member, Dispute Resolution Committee (elected by the faculty)
- 2002-2004 Member (and Chair, 2003-04), Lecture Series Committee
- 2002-2004 Member, Faculty Evaluation of Administrators Committee
- 1997-2001, 2004-2007 Member, American Studies group, St. Michael's College
- 2000- 2001 Member, Campus Culture Committee
- Fall 2000 Member, Provost Research Scholarship Committee
- February 2000 Founder and Organizer, Saint Michael's College Film Series
- 1998-2000 Member, Faculty Development Committee, St. Michael's College
- 1997-2000 Faculty Sponsor, Visiting Faculty Program (dorm advisor)
- 1997-1998 Consultant, Educational Technology Committee, St. Michael's College (left the committee in anticipation of the publication of my first book and then joined the Faculty Development Committee).
- 1997 Faculty Representative, Board of Trustees Retreat, St. Michael's College
- 1997-2016 Participant, academic admissions fairs
- 1997-2016 Academic Adviser, Journalism Department, St. Michael's College
I have always advised 21-50 majors a year, double to triple the college average
